

The Light-Life® Rings

We produce them in the following styles:

Copper; copper/24K gold plated; copper/silver plated, and Sterling Silver

All copper Light-Life® Tools that are plated have first a layer of silver and then 24K gold plating added. If the outside is silver plated it has three layers, first silver, then 24K gold, then silver. Depending on their purpose and measurement they may have beads added as amplifiers; three, five, or seven. The free Ring that comes with the purchase of any Harmonizers has one bead. It can also be used like the ones with three beads.

Some of the Light-Life® Rings are also available in heavier wire without beads. The heavier wire seems to create a denser tensor field.

Light-Life® Rings in Sterling Silver

Some of our standard measurements are also available in Sterling Silver. Those have two beads and a little ring to identify them as Sterling Silver. This is important as some of our customers ask for gold plating on the Sterling Silver items. According to our clairvoyant friends the little ring also acts as amplifier.

Below are the sizes we use for our Light-Life® Rings in the three different cubit measurements we offer:
